melanduka, m. (also merandū; Skt. Lex. melāndhu), ink-bottle: Mvy 8966 = Tib. ram physis (? cf. rams, indigo?); Chin. ink-bottle; listed among monks' appurtenances; Kv 28.24 (sumeruḥ parvatarājah . . . sa . . . bhūrjarāśir bhavet, mahāsamudro) melanduka-parimāṇḍalam bhavet; 92.7 sumeruḥ parvatarājō bhūrjarāśir (text bhūryya) bhavet, mahāsamudro (text °dra) merāṇḍu-māṇḍalam bhavet.

melā = next: Gv 106.12.

melu, m. or f., a high number (= prec., and mela 1): meluh, n. sg., Mvy 7897 (= Tib. h̄phrad yas), cited from Gv 133.22.

mellati, melleti (= Pkt., but not AMg., mellai) = millati, q.v. (much commoner in BHS, but both recorded only from Mv): brāhmaṇām mellitvā (abandoning) śramaṇānām abhiprasannā Mv i.311.13; mellitvā ii.463.17; 464.13 (v.l. °tvā); 465.15; 466.1; 469.19; 470.2; 471.12, 16; 473.1, 4; 474.16; 475.2; 476.17, 20; with gen. (as acc.) object, mama mellitvā anāthāye iii.132.15; mss. mellitvā, Senart em. mellitā (pp.; better sense) iii.164.10; melletvā ii.463.15; mellehi ii.448.4; 454.16.

Meṣaka, n. of a yakṣa: Samādh p. 43 line 19.

Maitraka = Maitreya (1) (only in vss and prob. m.c.): °ku (n. sg.) Gv 488.25; °kasya 489.7.

Maitrakanya, °nyaka (both forms occur in prose; corresp. to Pali Mittavindaka, and to BHS Maitrāyajñā, q.v.), n. of a merchant's son, later a Bodhisattva: °nya Divy 589.4 (vs); 593.19; 600.3 (both prose); usually °nyaka, Divy 590.4, 28; 592.1; 593.12, 28 (all prose), etc.; Av i.193.1 (title); 197.13 ff.

Maitrānātha = Maitreya (1) (in vs, prob. m.c.): °tha (n. sg.) Gv 489.8.

Maitra-nāma(n), 'whose name contains maitra', = Maitreya (1) (in vs, prob. m.c.): °ma (acc. sg.) Gv 489.4.

Maitrabalā, n. of a king: Jm 41.4 (prose; not to be em. to Maitribala with Speyer).

Maitraśrī, n. of a Bodhisattva: Gv 442.3.

maitrā (rarely maitryā, q.v.; = Pali mettā; the Skt. equivalent maitrī is also extensively used, notably instead of this as one of the apramāṇa; Skt. also maitra, maitrya, love, benevolence; sometimes as one (the first) of the four apramāṇa or brahmavihāra, qq.v.: maitrāya, oblique case, Mv i.175.3 (vs; same line maitrāya iii.346.15, see maitrya); maitrāya (instr.; v.l. °tryāya) sphuṭā Mv ii.350.15; (cf. maitryā, stem maitrī, sphāritvā Mv i.313.17, and see maitryā;) maitrā-vihāri Mv iii.421.18; Ud xxxii.20 (22); (cf. mahāmaitra-vihāri LV 426.3, prose, with Skt. maitra;) maitrā-pariśuddho Mv ii.362.5; with the other three apramāṇa, maitrāyām (loc.) LV 164.15 (vs); maitrāya (gen.) 183.3 (vs); other cases, maitrā vijitya . . . mārapakṣām LV 343.6 (vs), by love (instr.); maitrām anūsarati Kalpanāmaṇḍitikā, Lüders, Kl. Skt. Texte 2, 44; acc. to Kern, Preface viii, used in Kashgar rec. of SP for text maitri; maitrātmaka Divy 319.20, 26, could contain this or Skt. maitra; see also next.

Maitrāyajñā, the personage otherwise called Maitrakanya(ka) (q.v.); Karmav 50.16 etc.; 60.12; variants Maitra° and Maitre-yajñā are cited by Lévi, p. 50 note 10, who conjectures a MIndic original *Metteyāñā.

[? maitrāyana (for °ṇa?), n. sg. °naḥ, Dbh.g. 41(67).14, if text is right, would seem to be synonym of maitrā, love: °naḥ śubhaprabhā jagaklesaghāṭi. But it is prob. a corruption; acc. to Susa's note, Tib., Chin., and Mongol versions point to maitrāśayaḥ.]
