

Taporāti (I)—(Paulaha): a sage of the epoch of the 4th Sāvārṇa Manu.

Br. IV. 1. 92.

Taporāti (II)—a son of Tāmasa Manu.

M. 9. 17.

Taporāti (III)—a sage of the XII epoch of Manu.

Vi. III. 2. 35.

Tapoloka—see also Tapa.

Bhā. II. 5. 39; Vā. 7. 30; 24. 3; 49. 149; 61. 132 and 177.

Taptakumbha—(Taptakuṇḍa- Vi. P.); a hell, into which fall disloyal government servants, dealers in horses, gaolers, and women, those who have sexual intercourse with sisters, preceptor's wife, incestuous offenders, murderers of Kṣatriyas and Vaiśyas and slayers of royal emissary.

Br. IV. 2. 147, 156; Vā. 101. 146, 154; Vi. II. 6. 2 and 9-10.

Taptaloka—a hell into which fall those who deal in horses, guardians of prisoners, sellers of chaste ladies and those who abandon bhaktas and companions.

Vā. 101. 154; Vi. II. 6. 11.

Tama (I)—(lokaprṣṭha): a kind of hell: persons fallen from Varṇa and Āśramadharmā find this hell.

Br. IV. 2. 150, 177-78; Vā. 101. 149, 179; Vi. II. 6. 4.

Tama (II)—equated with ajñāna or ignorance, bound by three fetters; to think that which is not eternal as eternal, to regard happiness in one's difficulties, to regard one's own