

Dyuti—left her consort Vibhāvasu and loved Soma with eight other Devis.

M. 23. 24.

Dyumat (I)—one of the seven sons of Vasiṣṭha; a friend who accompanied Purañjana when he went to Vibh-rājita.²

¹ Bhā. IV. 1. 41. ² Ib. IV. 25. 47.

Dyumat (II)—a son of Svārociṣa Manu.

Bhā. VIII. 1. 19.

Dyumat (III)—a son of Divodāsa and father of Alarka and others; (also known as Pratardana, Śatrujit, Vatsa, Ṛtadhvaja, and Kuvalayāśva).

Bhā. IX. 17. 6.

Dyumat (IV)—the minister of Śālva, hit Pradyumna with his gada, but killed by the latter.

Bhā. X. 76. 26. 27; 77. 1-3.

Dyumatsena (I)—Dṛdhasena- Br. P.) the son of Śama, and father of Sumati.

Bhā. IX. 22. 48.

Dyumatsena (II)—father of Satyavān; losing his eyesight and consequently his kingdom, took to forest life; got back his sight due to the grace of the God of death at the request of Sāvitrī.

M. 208. 14-16; 214. 10.

Dyumatsena (III)—a son of Trinetra; ruled for forty-eight years.

M. 271. 27.